2b. Previous research work

Research Title: Measuring Elder Abuse in New Zealand
Principal outcome: The study demonstrated that elder abuse, as measured by VASS, was prevalent for at least 1 in 10 participants aged 65 years and over on each of the four sub-scales. Numerous other findings.
Principal end-user and contact: Office for Senior Citizens, MSD Sarah Clark, Age Concern, Grey Power
Research title: Successful Families and Whānau
Principal outcome: Strengthening families and whānau in NZ through more effective interventions delivered by service providers, policymakers and whanau themselves - all supported through the provision of tools which are evidence based, NZ relevant, and culturally coherent.

Principal end-user and contact: Funded by MBIE 2013 Contestable Science Investment. End-users: Vulnerable families, NGOs and Ministries that work with vulnerable families

Research title: Report of an investigation into defining a living wage for NZ.

Principal outcome: Established an empirical basis for the current campaign to promote the adoption of a living wage in New Zealand.

Principal end-user and contact: Service and Food Workers Union, NZCTU, Community Groups, Churches. Annie Newman

Research title: New Zealand Longitudinal Study of Ageing

Principal outcome: Second wave of surveys. Already generated findings that have been disseminated in NZ and internationally.

Principal end-user and contact: Funded by FRST/MSI as Public Good Science, no single end-user. Sarah Clark OSC, MSD

Research title: Enhancing Wellbeing in an Ageing Society

Principal outcome: Increased understanding of the implications of population change

Principal end-user and contact: The Ministry of Social Development. Don Gray

Research title: Socio-cultural Factors Underlying Food Security and Physical Activity for Māori and Pacific People

Principal outcome: Report disseminated by the Ministry of Health.

Principal end-user and contact: HRC/MoH Partnership programme funding, Ministry of Health.

Research title: NZ Poverty Measurement Project

Principal outcome: Evidence base for Working for Families Programme and Income Related Rents in State Houses

Principal end-user and contact: Ministry of Social Development: Mr Bryan Perry

2c. Describe the commercial, social or environmental impact of your previous research work

NZ Poverty Measurement Project has been recorded by FRST and MSD as providing the evidence base for the increase in superannuation rates in 2000, the move to low cost income related rents in state houses in 2000 and the Working for Families package designed to reduce child poverty 2004-07.

The two large scale research programmes on ageing have involved us in considerable consultation with government and international collaborative work.

The Living Wage research has provided a transparent empirical basis for the debate on a living wage and what it will purchase for a family.

Our NZiDep scale has been absorbed into Statistics New Zealand's SoFIE Survey

2d. Demonstration of relationships with end-users

We were approached to carry out the Living Wage research because of our involvement with low income families and those who work with them.

Continuously asked to speak and present research to professional and community groups concerned with ageing.

Regularly consulted by government and the media on issues relating to ageing population, income, housing, child development and family health.

End-user relationships reflected in the 2009 Companion of the Queen's Service Order (QSO) for services to social policy.
